We all think we know how to cross a road safely? Right? But with the number of cars gradually increasing on our roads how many of us properly stop, look, listen and think? How many of us now wrongly expect the street to be empty? How many of us are not crossing at a sensible spot because we expect the roads to be quieter? How many of us are distracted by playing ball, chatting to our family members or even playing on a phone? I know even I myself as an adult am guilty. The other day a van pulled up just as I were crossing the road with my family. We didn't hear the car approach up on what was usually a quiet street. It was a near miss and we were lucky. This got me thinking of the importance of remembering the key ways of crossing a road safely. If I had followed these simple steps I would have realised that crossing in front of a van was very dangerous. Always remember to: STOP, LOOK, LISTEN AND THINK. This week's Learning <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Watch the video by clicking on this link.
